MAGAZINE POSTAGE FIGHT INAUGURATED

Proposed Increase Will Cripple Business, Many Publishers Declare.

CUMMINS EXPECTED TO LEAD OPPOSITION

Has Counter Proposition Requiring Magazines to Ship All Output By Mail.

By JUDSON C. WELLIVER.

For and against the proposal to increase the postage on magazines, one of the higgest and bitterest fights of the present session will be waged in the next few days.

Magazine publishers, editors, and writers charge that the increase is calculated to cripple their business. They pay now 1 cent per pound; it is proposed that they shall hereafter have their first 4,000 pounds at the 1-cent rate; that the reading and advertising sections shall be weighed separately, and the weight of the reading section above 4,000 pounds shall go at I cent. and of the advertising section at 4

It has been estimated by the Postoffice Department that the change would add $5,000,000 to the annual postal revenues.

The magazine people retort that it would not: because it would so far reduce the business by putting publications out of print, that in fact the department, instead of transferring the profits of the business to its own coffers, would kill the goose.

By Direct Vote.

When the matter comes up in the Senate it will come with the committee amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill. This amendment may be sub ject to a point of order; that procedure will be tried, but expectation is that the point will be held inapplicable. In that case a direct vote will be recessitated.

President Taft and Postmaster General Hitchcock first proposed this increase in magazine rates more than a year ago, with the purpose of meeting the postal deficit, in part at least. Opponents of the Administration have not been chart about reterring that in ont been charry about retorting that in fact the Administration wants to punish and weaken the progressive magazines which used to be enthusiastic supporters of the Roosevelt Administration, out have not been devoted to that of muck-rakers, in short, are regard-The muck-rakers, in snort, are regarded as the people against whom the proposal is aimed; and there is a sharp division among the magazine people themselves, some of whom are extremely hostile to the so-called muck-rake magazines, charging them with bringing the entire magazine business face to face with the present situation

Strong Protest Made.

Senator Cummins intends to offer an alternative proposition at the right time, Instead of increasing the magazine rate, he will demand that the magazines be required to ship all their output by mail. At present a huge tonnage of magazines is handled by express, because for shorter distances the express cause for shorter distances the express to companies make the lower rates; but for long distances the lower rates and long distances the long distances the lower rates and long distances the lower rates are long distances. Let 'em long distances the lower rates are long distances the lower rates are long distances. Let 'em long distances the long distances the long distances the long distances the lower rates are long distances. Let 'em long distances the long dista long distances, the business goes to the post, which makes lower rates than the express companies for such distances.

If all the business went to the post there would be, the Senator insists, a substantial profit in it for the Government, which now gets too large a share of the unremunerative end and too lit-tle of the profitable.

Outlook Is Dubious.

Further than this, Senator Cummins will demand that the Postoffice Department enforce its legal right to a postofice carries merchandise parcels up to four pounds; but it does not atempt to monopolize the business, as has the right to do. It divides with the express companies, the latter getting most of the business, and especially the short-distance, a highly profit-le part. Senator Cummins would en-posed, Say Pact Will Be Ratified.

OF RECIPROCITY BILL

That President Taft is going to be able to force Congress to ratify the Canadian reciprocity agreement is the conviction which is steadily growing about the Capitol.

A remarkable change in the situation has come about since the President sent the reciprocity agreement to Congress. Then, it was said on every hand that the reciprocity agreement had no show whatever at this session and that it was doubtful whether it would ever be ratified. Now, with the flouse certain to pass the measure ratifying the agreement, there is some prospect of ratification this session and practically a certainty that if Congress is called back in extra session and a vote forced the agreement will be in

The sticking point, as everyone understands, is in the Senate. And the situation in that body is such that ome of the Senators who are opposed to the agreement are saying openly that it is going to be adopted. By this, they mean that it may come to a vote this session and if so it will be passed; but if it does not come to a vote now and an extra session is called, it will

Opposition Not Conspicous. It is learned that some Representalives of the lumber interests, who have ome on here to fight the agreement, have been told that the agreement cannot be headed off. And they have received this information from Senators who do not want it ratified. As a matter of fact, the Senate is find ing out that President Taft has a powerful weight of public sentiment on his ome of the farming interests, from the President May Force Support.

It is expected the agreement in the Senate will get twenty-seven or twentyeight Democratic votes. Forty-sever votes will be required to pass it. This means that about twenty Republicans will have to support it, if it passes. This applies to the present Congress. In the next, the agreement will have piore Democratic support and will need once more a matrimonial remnant, cast frage Bazaar takes place on St. Valen- fewer Republican votes.

votes for the agreement. Senators who are counted on as either committed to the agreement or pretty certain to line Senator Cummins is expected to lead the fight in the upper charmer against the proposed increase. Important publishers against it, and they represent what is perhaps the most influential section of the periodical press in this matter; the most influential section of the periodical press in this matter; the most influential section of the periodical press in this matter; the most influential section of the periodical press in this matter; the holder of the heavyweight matriblished at very low subscription prices; their postage bills would be immensely increased, and many of their publishers say frankly that they could not continue.

Senator Cummins has declared himself for reciprocity, but he wants a more extended free list, so the arrangement will be fairer to the farmer. He does not say he will vote against the agree-ment, and some of his friends think he will do so rather than take the responsi-bility for killing the agreement. One of the interesting things about the situation is that the discussion of the agreement has brought out a lot sentiment for absolute free un with Canada. Even some of the lumber representatives declare they will stand for that. It may be expected that if the agreement goes through, there will be a powerful movement to tear down completely the trade barriers between this nation and Canada.

Pupils Discuss Taft's Letter on Temperance

Sunday school teachers and pupils are discussing today the letter on temperance written by President Taft Decem ber 29, 1910, and read in practically all the Sunday schools of Washington and in many throughout the United States yesterday. The letter reads:

"The excessive use of intoxicating iquors is the cause of a great deal of liquors is the cause of a great deal of the powerly, degradation, and crime of the world, and one who abstains from the use of liquor avoids a dangerous temptation. Abraham Lincoln showed that he believed this in writing out for his boy friends the pledge of total abstinence so often quoted. Each person must determine for himself the course he will take in reference to his tastes and appetites, but those who exercise the self-restraint to avoid altogether the temptation of alcoholic liquor are on the safer and wiser side."
